

Mission of the Jessenius Faculty of Medicine in Martin, Comenius University Bratislava

The basic mission of the Faculty is to develop and spread education and take care of its deep understanding, and as a research institution it does so through creative scientific research that opens up new horizons in both science and education.

As a FACULTY, it is distinguished from other scientific institutions by the independence of its research, autonomy in choosing the goals of its research, its orientation towards teaching and education, and the fact that it carries out scientific research and education on its premises in the group of fields of study "Medical Sciences and Health Sciences".

As a FACULTY, it is distinguished from other educational institutions by the fact that its teaching is based on its own scientific activity, on drawing on the world's best sources of scientific knowledge and on an interdisciplinary approach to problem solving. It not only communicates scientific knowledge to its students, but also spreads it outside the Faculty.

As a FACULTY, it defines its goals and priorities of its own volition, and members of its academic community freely exercise their academic rights in the exercise of their profession.

As a FACULTY, it is the guarantor of freedom and democracy not only on its own academic premises, but also considers spreading these principles throughout society to be its mission.

As a FACULTY, it is obliged to defend academic rights and its academic autonomy and independence.

As a higher education institution that is part of the Comenius University, a leading centre of European education and a university with an international orientation, it defines its strategic goals:

- sustainably maintain and develop its identity as a scientific and educational institution of the highest international standard;
- create excellent conditions for education in a wide range of study programmes at all levels of study with special emphasis on doctoral studies;
- prepare its graduates to represent not only the highest degree of personal and professional excellence, but also humanity and humanism;
- improve society's scientific and cultural outlooks as well as its economic prosperity.

As part of the Comenius University, which is a CENTRE OF EXCELLENCE, it pays special attention to the constant evaluation of the level of its scientific work and teaching so that its students are guided by excellent experts - scientists and educators.

As part of the Comenius University, the oldest, largest and most important university in Slovakia, which continues the historical traditions of the Academia Istropolitana as the first higher education institution in this territory, it emphasizes its warm relationship with the Slovak nation, in which it has its roots and which forms its foundations enabling it to look out to the widest international horizons, bringing all-round benefit not only to itself but also to Slovakia.
